Crewmen Have No Difficulty Controlling Ship, But Feel "Shock-Wave"

4 "DRONES" RETURN

Drop Described as "Perfect Job;" Destruction Worse Than First Thought

ABOARD U.S.S. APPALACHIAN, IN BIKINI LAGOON—Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy led a segment of his Operation Crossroads forces into radioactive Bikini lagoon today and found 36 ships sunk or damaged by the awesome detonation of the world's fourth atomic bomb.

With inspection of all the 73 ships in the guinea pig fleet not yet completed, Admiral Blandy officially announced a growing toll claimed by the fearsome atomic weapon. Blandy reported the following recapitulation:

"Two transports, the Gilliam and the Carlisle, were sunk. One destroyer, the Lamson, capsized and sank later. Another destroyer, the Anderson, is damaged and may sink. "Ships badly damaged are the battleships, Arkansas, the Japanese battleship Nagato, the submarine Skate, the carrier Independence, the light cruiser Sakawa, also Japanese, the heavy cruiser Pensacola and one tank landing ship.

"There is slight damage to 25 other ships."

KWAJALEIN, July 1—(INS)—Atomic age airman who dropped atom-splitting fury over Bikini Lagoon returned to Kwajalein today to learn that what they left behind them was a scene of hourly increasing destruction.

Complete satisfaction in the first phase of Operation Crossroads was expressed by Brig. Gen. Roger Ramey, chief of Tactical Airforces for the atom test. Ramey was particularly enthusiastic about the performance of Maj. Woodrow Swancutt's B-29 crew which dropped "Gilda"—the fourth atomic bomb in history.

Maj. Swancutt himself described the bomb's explosion as "tremendous" and "surprising and more immense" than he had ever imagined.

The man who actually "pressed the button" which sent the terrible weapon on its flight to destruction—Maj. Harold Wood of Borden-town, N. J.—heard nothing but praise for his perfect job.

Swancutt and his crew who dropped the atom bomb were extremely enthusiastic over the success of their mission, which observers described as a flawless demonstration of airmanship.

The silvery Superfortress "Dave's Dream" made a delayed but faultless take-off from the Kwajalein airstrip at 5:53 a. m. Bikini time (10:53 a. m. Sunday PST).

Swancutt reported everything ran smoothly. With bombardier Maj. Wood ready to release the bomb, the Superfortress approached the target approximately two and a half hours later.

Swancutt began the live run on the reddish colored "bullseye" of the target, the battleship Nevada, at 8:40 a. m. Bikini time (1:40 p. m. PST Sunday) and 20 minutes later the atomic missile had dropped through the bomb bay doors.

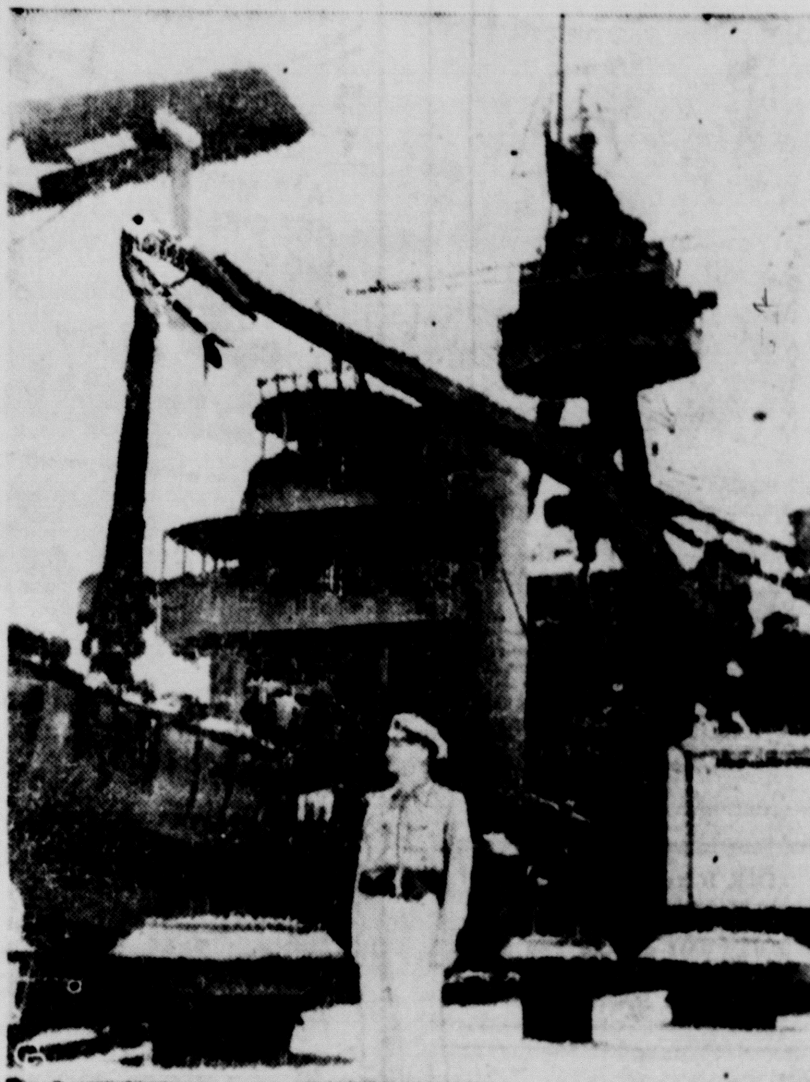

Swancutt reported that the shock-wave—which he described as "a tremendous hand slapping the plane on the bottom"—struck the Superfortress after it had broken off from the bomb run. Crewmen, however, Continued on Page Four

SKIPPER'S FAREWELL TO HIS SHIP

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Declaring that he would like to make Washington Crossing Park the mecca for large assemblies, Dr. R. C. Magill, who is in charge of the famed historic Delaware river park area, speaking to members of the Bucks County Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, said:

"When my plans are completed the park should be one of the most attractive gathering places around here," Dr. Magill, who conducted the D. A. R. women on a tour of the historic Colonial burying ground of some of the Revolutionary soldiers, asserted that stones from each of the 13 colonial states will be placed around the flag pole.

The D. A. R. held its business meeting at the Thompson House, near Neely's Mill, where they enjoyed a picnic lunch. Following the picnic lunch, Dr. Magill spoke to the members.

With Mrs. Isaac J. VanArtsdalen as the hostess, the final meeting of the year was held on Wednesday afternoon at her home in Doylestown with about 50 members and guests in attendance.

Sponsored by Sellersville Lodge, No. 1529, L. O. O. M., a welcome home dinner was tendered members of the lodge who were in service during World War II, at the headquarters of the lodge, here, Thursday evening.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

In Paris, the American delegation at the Foreign Ministers' Conference was said to be unenthusiastic about the French compromise proposal on Trieste and to have demanded definite security guarantees and delimitation of the internationalized area that would have to be linked to Italy.

Violence broke out in Trieste when it was rumored that Yugoslavs had interfered with Italian national bicycle racers.

Poland held her first national elections in 11 years; disorders had been anticipated but did not materialize. Results will not be known for days.

Kilcoyne In New Office; Keystone Plans Expansion

John Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., is occupying, effective today, new law offices at 121 Otter street, in the structure recently erected by John C. Burns.

Mr. Kilcoyne removed his offices from 505 Bath street, to the larger and modern quarters.

The change was brought about due to the desire of operators of the Keystone Hotel planning an expansion program there. The Keystone, manager David Granath announced, will expand facilities of the hotel this summer or fall. Just what the present Kilcoyne offices will be used for has not been definitely decided.

PUBLICKER EMPLOYEES RETURN TO THEIR JOBS

Strike in Effect Since Wednesday Is Settled on New Formula

SLIDING WAGE SCALE

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, July 1—Employees of the Publiker Commercial Alcohol Co. returned to work here this morning following settlement of a strike effective since Wednesday in all 14 plants in the Philadelphia area of the Publiker firm.

A sliding scale of wages has been agreed upon. Under it the figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics would be used as the index of the cost of living. If those index figures, which are published quarterly, show a change in either direction of 3.91 or greater, the workers will receive commensurate wage increases or decreases.

Another feature included in the agreement is a clause guaranteeing full seniority rights to employees who had served in the armed forces. Such employees will get full credit for the time spent in the service insofar as it applies to vacations, sick benefits, insurance, promotions and year-end bonuses.

HAVE ROAST

A "doggie" roast and swimming were enjoyed by a group of young folks at Silver Lake on Thursday evening. Participants were: the Misses Carolyn Nocito, Linda and Kathleen Whyno, Hannah Bracken, Jean Collins; Messrs. Charles Bigelow, William Hobbs, John Waide, Bristol; Walter Krywicki, Phila.

PAYING THE COAL BILL

The average family which heats its home with coal will pay at least $10 extra during the coming winter.

The money will go to several purposes. Some of it is in wage increases—direct and indirect—to the miners. Some of it is for the purpose of setting up an experimental "welfare fund" intended to give the miners a higher degree of hardship insurance than the Social Security program provides.

If John L. Lewis decides that the time is ripe for another of his famous "$2 special assessments" on the coal miners, some of the money may wind up in politics.

Hard coal prices were raised from 91 cents to $1.15 a ton as the result of the meeting of minds between Mr. Lewis and President Truman. The hard coal settlement was not reached by the two; but it closely paralleled the soft coal agreement written by the White House after the President had taken over this industry.

The hard coal operators were quick to get the idea and act upon it. President Truman's program was quite simple. It was to give the miners everything they ask and pass the bill along to the consuming public.

14,252 Pounds of Wool Is Shipped From Doylestown

DOYLESTOWN, July 1—County Agent William F. Greenawalt announced that a total of 14,252 pounds of wool were shipped from the railroad depot on Thursday by the Bucks-Montgomery Cooperative Wool Pool.

The wool pool was begun in 1934 and Thursday's shipment was the 13th annual grading, loading and shipping event held here since the pool was organized.

Of the 139 shippers represented, Howard Heyser, Norristown, RD, was the largest single shipper with a total of 193 pounds. Next biggest shipper was John Mathias, Hershams, who shipped 927 pounds.

W. B. Connell, of the extension department of State College, graded the wool. County Agent Greenawalt said that 10,000 pounds of the wool was graded one-quarter blood.

The wools, the price of which was not disclosed because the wool goes to Boston, where it will be appraised by Federal appraisers and the price established at that time, were consigned to the Commodity Credit Corporation, through Patterson and Company, Boston. The price will be ceiling prices, less the cost of handling and shipping.

FORESEE BATTLE OVER CONTROL OF PRICES

Truman, Deserted by Legislative Leaders, Looks To the People

ASKS 'WORKABLE' ACT

By Raymond Wilcoxe
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, July 1—(INS)—An historic battle between Congress and President Truman loomed as the nation's 140 million people awoke today to find that the price and rent controls of five years of war and peace were ended.

A Chief Executive deserted by his legislative leaders on Capitol Hill looked to the people for support in his fight for what he termed a "workable" price control act.

Barring that, the sentiment in the House and Senate was to reject the President's plea and enact another extension bill somewhat along the lines of that vetoed by Mr. Truman Saturday.

Before the House as it convened was a resolution which would extend the Price Control Act and its administrative agency, the OPA, from midnight Sunday, when they expired, until July 20. The House was to vote on the resolution this afternoon, with indications pointing to its approval.

No Senate action on the resolution appeared likely until late this week or next.

The President faced an unusual situation in Congress in that his leaders had, to all intents and purposes, deserted him. They based Continued on Page Four

ANNETTE WOLER WEDS AT RAINBOW CEREMONY

Becomes Bride of Gerald E. Freed, of Brooklyn; Wedding at Woler Home

200 ATTEND RECEPTION

With the parents of both the bride and groom giving them in marriage, Mr. Gerald E. Freed, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Annette E. Woler, 296 Mill street, took the vows which made them husband and wife yesterday afternoon at the hour of two.

The colorful rainbow wedding took place at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Woler, Mill street. They exchanged vows as they took their places beneath a white canopy decorated with a blue Hebrew star, and surrounded with palms and ferns. Four short gold columns, entwined with asparagus fern and white flowers, formed an aisle for the bridal party.

A four-piece orchestra played the wedding marches, and also provided the accompaniment for Mrs. Oscar Sklar, Philadelphia, the vocalist. Her offerings were "Iche Liebe Dei," "At Dawning," and "Because." The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Cohen, of Adath Israel Synagogue, Trenton, N. J.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white summer satin, imported satin lace applique being used as trim around the boat neckline and at the dip waistline. Sleeves tapered over her hands. The full skirt billowed to a lengthy train. She wore a skull cap of net trimmed in orange blossoms, with orange blossoms also covering a snood. From this fell a veil of net. REALTORS URGE RESTRAINT ON THE PART OF OWNERS

Bucks County Real Estate Board Holds Special Meeting

STATE POLICIES

Supported Rent Control As A Patriotic War Necessity

LANGHORNE, July 1—A special meeting of the members of the Bucks County Real Estate Board was held at the office of Realtor William A. Roositor, here, last evening at eight o'clock, at which 20 members were present. The rental situation was thoroughly discussed and the following statement of policies was adopted:

"In view of the situation existing by virtue of the expiration of O. P. A. regulations:

"The Bucks County Real Estate Board is of the opinion that great restraint should be exercised in the subject of rents and that the whole economic structure under the natural law, rather than by edict, will adjust the relationship of rents. We do not believe in any move on the part of landlords to change the rental structure pending such adjustment, or until legislation may be enacted that shall equitably integrate the problem of rents with all other labor and commodity costs.

"Realtors have supported rent control as a patriotic war necessity but have decried the inequitable administration of the regulations. The Bucks County Board is definitely of the opinion that the greatest restraint should be exercised at this moment as an example of the need of the natural adjustment of our economy in this post-war era."

Rev. Carroll Officiates At A Wedding Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Brown, 321 McKinley street, and Mr. William R. Hardy, 1146 Beaver street, was an event locally at three o'clock Saturday afternoon. Relatives and friends gathered in Bristol Methodist Church for the ceremony performed by the Rev. William Carroll, pastor of Harriman Methodist Church.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Harker and Mr. George A. Brown, was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mrs. Robert Hardy, Beaver street.

Music was provided by Miss Winifred V. Tracy, Buckley street, organist, and Mrs. John VanSoest, Hayes street. The latter sang three numbers: "Because," "I Love Thee," and "I Love You Truly."

Members of the bridal party were: Matron of honor, Mrs. William VanSoest, Hayes street, sister of the bride; bridesmaids, Miss Hannah Bracken, Benson Place; Miss Stella Mama, Hayes street; and Miss Genevieve Kwochka, Wilson avenue. Mrs. VanSoest and Miss Mama selected gowns of blue, and the other two attendants wore pink. The gowns of bengaline had illusion necklines, with ruffles of bengaline forming an off-the-shoulder effect. Skirts were floor length, and the gowns had three-quarter sleeves. Their bengaline head-dresses matched the individual costumes; they wore white slippers, and carried colonial bouquets of mixed flowers tied with pink and blue bows.

The bridal gown of white taffeta had an illusion neckline, with a ruffled off-the-shoulder arrangement having lace inserts. Tapered sleeves were edged with lace over the hands. The hoop skirt swept to a train. Her net veil was held by a beaded tiara, and she wore doekin slippers and carried Easter lilies.

Mr. Elwood Knight, Beaver street, served Mr. Hardy as best man; with Mr. William VanSoest, Hayes street, Mr. Edward McGlynn and Mr. George Troner, Bath street, as ushers.

Traveling to the Pocono Mountains for a week's honeymoon, Mrs. Hardy was attired in a two-piece pink suit, white straw hat, white accessories, and wore a lavender orchid. The couple will live at 321 McKinley street.

Mrs. Hardy, a graduate of Bristol high school, is employed in the accounting department at Fleetwings, Inc., Division of Kaiser Cargo. Mr. Hardy, who served in the U. S. Army in the European Theatre of Operations, was a prisoner of the Germans for some time.

Gifts of the bride to the matron of honor and bridesmaids were compacts, while Mr. Hardy presented his attendants with collar pins and tie clasps.

MAKE WALLACE PROVE IT
No great surprise will be caused by the report from Washington that there is a determined effort in Congress to trim the budget which Secretary Wallace has submitted for the Department of Commerce. In the first place, some of the projects which Mr. Wallace wants to put into effect, notably a census of business and industry, are of extremely doubtful value in a rapidly changing economy. In the second place, many Senators and Representatives have good reason to ask themselves whether Mr. Wallace's activities are "commerce" or "politics."

For months the Secretary of Commerce has resolutely refrained from addressing groups of business men, even though his department has the promotion of business and trade as its primary obligation. But times without number he has appeared before labor unions and such organizations as the Political Action Committee and the American Labor Party, all of whose support he may expect to receive in any future campaign for office. It is no wonder that the question arises in many minds whether he is doing the job for which he is paid or working in his own behalf. Another factor in the situation is the use which Wallace has made of government money in the past. It has not been forgotten, for instance, that Department of Commerce statisticians were the men who inspired many of the nation's labor troubles last fall by their unwarranted statement that large industries could increase wages greatly without increasing prices. This contention was later proved to have no basis in fact and no actual figures were ever presented to substantiate it.

Congress, therefore, has grounds for regarding with a certain suspicion the request which Wallace has made for a larger appropriation. His budget should be subjected to the closest scrutiny.

PEACE PROSPECTS
Foreign ministers of the Big Four, in their second Paris conference, are making some headway with peace for Italy but back of that are the grim specters of southeastern Europe and Germany. These are the keystones of a solid European peace. Failure there will be a hard blow to the prospect of restoring international stability.
Russia demands a preponderant position in the Balkans. Moscow proposes that Bulgaria have a large Black Sea fleet, but Britain and America, reluctant to see the balance of power in southeastern Europe radically shifted at the expense of Greece and Turkey, oppose the plan. Russia also opposes freedom of commerce on the Danube.
Whether Byrnes and Bevin will be forced to carry out their threat of by-passing Russia through a peace conference of 21 nations is to be seen. Russia has given no reason as yet to hope that she will change her uncompromising attitude.

The suit for damages against the Pennsylvania Railroad brought by John McGee for injuries sustained at the Mill street crossing accident in December, 1891, was tried before Judge Hare of Philadelphia, last week, and the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the boy for $5500. PAYING THE COAL BILL

This has been the method in the various other industries as well. As a result, a wage increase of 18½ cents per ton pushed the price of steel up $5 a ton; an increase of 18½ cents an hour in railroads advanced freight rates 3 to 6 per cent; and a similar increase in the motor industry substantially raised the price of new cars.

Calling this sort of thing "price control" was, of course, wholly fantastic. If there must be a short name for it, one is available which correctly describes it: "Inflation."

The process was no more under control than an atomic bomb which has just been dropped from a plane.

Nowhere in the chain are the real causes of inflation touched. These causes are the various devices by which the National government persists in spending more money than it now or perhaps ever will be in sight.

The hope of the government was to disguise the effects of its inflationary policies, and to try to talk the public into believing that prices which were steadily rising were really being kept level.

The manner in which these events have speeded up inflation is very obvious. For example, an addition of 5% to automobiles has been made because steel prices were increased to cover higher wages in that industry.

Each price called for other similar rises in all other fields of manufacture and distribution involved.

Instead of "equalizing" and thus cancelling out the effects of the wage-price boosts, the effect of each jump is cumulative.

What this means is that, thanks to this arbitrary disturbance of the laws of economics, the recipients of the wage boosts stand eventually to lose not only all of their increases in the higher prices they must pay—but even more, because the prices will wind up higher in percentage than the percentage of wage boosts.

Still more violent wage-disputes and strikes are thus the making.

The coal wages were raised by the President for the most obvious political reasons; the miners wanted the raise, he wanted their votes; also, he was unhappy at the thought of what John L. Lewis might do if an occupant of the White House said "no" to him at the present juncture.

The American public's interests were considered only in the sense that they were permitted to pay the bill.

Bad economics are conspicuous at every stage of the wage increase. There is no promise whatever that the miners are going to dig more coal in return for their higher wages. Some of the terms of the agreement mean that they probably will dig less. There is no increase in the price of the coal—it won't burn any better, or create any more heat.

There is no record that any of the parties in the discussions with President Truman even raised the idea that, in an industry whose economic health has been so shaky because of coal, higher wages should be offset by greater efficiency.

As a matter of fact, the most disturbing economic force released by the new hard coal prices is one already fatal to the future of anthracite.

Putting the matter in its simplest way, every home owner (and the backbone of the hard-coal business is house heating) has already had some temptation to move over to a substitute heating method—oil, perhaps; or gas, or even electricity.

The new increase, and the way in which it was reached, is bound to be a powerful new stimulus to this change-over.

The price differential, where any exists, is sharply reduced by the increase. Moreover, the picture that the miners are encouraged to think they can get anything they want by threatening to strike brings up the dangerous question of whether the future supply of coal is going to be dependable.

Why should the miners fool themselves about their industry? If household coal could be relied upon for the future, at a price of, say, $10 a ton, the anthracite industry in Pennsylvania could count on many years of steady markets.

But the picture, first, of long continued mounting prices, and second, production broken by periodic strikes or threats of strikes, is bound eventually to destroy the market for the product.

Labor bosses and the New Dealers alike tend to forget all about the public in general. But in the last analysis the consumer is king; broadly speaking, the customer is always right.

The generosity of President Truman towards the coal miners (generosity with the consumers' money) may in the long run prove to be the worst blow the industry has ever suffered.

white satin slippers, and carried a white prayer book on which rested white orchids.

Miss Grace Rosenthal, Trenton, a cousin of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of blue marquisette; slippers in American Beauty tone, a tiara type of head-dress composed of rose buds in American Beauty shade, and carried an arm bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The four bridesmaids were attired in floor-length gowns of faille. Miss Marcy Meltzer, Trenton, wore lime tone; Miss Julia Sherman, Trenton, pink; Miss Florence Grad, Trenton, American Beauty; and Miss Ruth Orman, Brooklyn, N. Y., aqua. Miss Meltzer's and Miss Grad's gowns had drop shoulders, long tapered sleeves, and modified bustles. Miss Sherman and Miss Orman wore gowns which had close-fitting necklines and cap sleeves, the costumes buttoning down the front. Fullness on the front of their skirts was arranged in similar manner to that of the bustles on the gowns of the other bridesmaids. All four wore gold slippers. They carried colonial bouquets of mixed summer flowers. Miss Grad and Miss Orman are cousins of the bride. The little flower girl was Gail Popkin, Landreth Manor. Her floor-length gown was of blue, she wore white slippers, and carried a tiny colonial bouquet of mixed flowers.

Serving Mr. Freed as best man was Mr. Walter H. Woler, Mill street, brother of the bride; the ushers being inclusive of: Messrs. Melvin Meyerowitz, Baltimore, Md.; Carl Kaplan, Trenton, cousin of the groom; Harold Steinhilber and Stanley Falk, of Brooklyn.

Selected for the ceremony by Mrs. Woler was a dinner gown of warm beige trimmed in black hand-painted orchids which were embroidered with seed pearls and tiny black beads; gold slippers, and a corsage of lavender orchids. Mrs. Freed, mother of the groom, chose an aqua dinner gown trimmed with sequins; silver slippers, and a lavender orchid corsage.

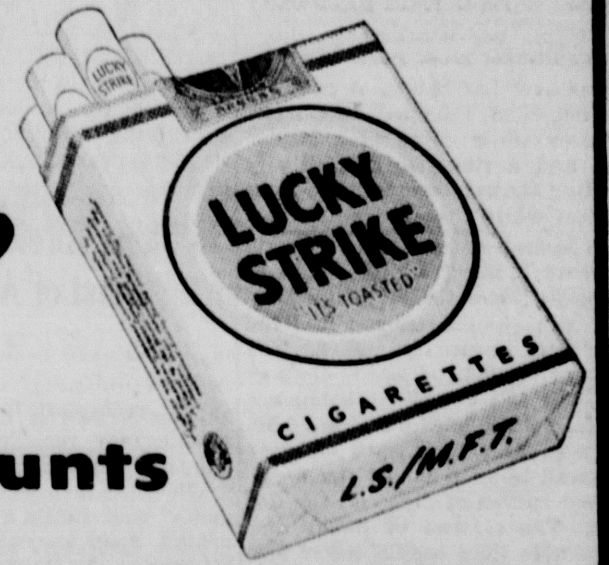

A caterer served dinner to 200 guests, with the orchestra providing music for the reception.

Mrs. Freed, who is a graduate of Bristol high school, selected as a travelling costume for her honeymoon a two-piece suit of white wool trimmed in black; hand-painted nylon blouse; black patent slippers and bag; black, off-the-face, open-crown straw hat; and wore white orchids. The couple are spending two weeks on a motor trip through the New England states. They will reside in Brooklyn.

tapered over her hands. A ruffle of silk net also trimmed the train. She wore white slippers; a beaded tiara, and a fingertip veil of silk net. Her shower bouquet was composed of white roses.

The matron of honor was gowned in orchid; Miss Dorothea Mills in blue green; the former Miss Margaret Mills in chartreuse; and the flower girl in canary yellow. The gowns of the quartet had bodices of faille, the full cut skirts being of tulle. The gowns had key-hole necklines, bracelet length sleeves; and small bows trimmed the neckline and ruffles of faille on the net skirts. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore sequin tiaras and net veils matching their individual gowns; and white slippers. Mrs. Mills carried yellow roses; Miss Dorothea Mills, pink roses; and the former Miss Margaret Mills, red roses. The little flower girl carried an old-fashioned bouquet of roses in a shade contrasting with her gown. The ring bearer wore a tuxedo, and carried the two rings on a heart-shaped pillow of white satin.

The newlyweds are spending a week in the New Jersey Pines region. As a travelling costume Mrs. Silcox selected a two-piece crepe suit of chartreuse and black, white hat and accessories, and wore a corsage of white roses. The couple will reside in their new home in Bensalem Township when it is completed.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Mills to Mr. Thomas G. Dougherty, of Centralia, was solemnized in St. Mark's R. C. rectory, Bristol, at the hour of seven p. m. The Rev. Fr. Paul E. Baird officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Attending the bride and groom were Mrs. Ernest Ludwig, Newportville; and Mr. Albert Adams, of Centralia, the latter a nephew of the groom.

The bride gown was in white and floor length, the bodice being of satin and the skirt of marquisette. Sleeves were three-quarter length, and the marquisette yoke formed a close-fitting neck-line. A ruffle of marquisette provided a drop shoulder effect. Her fingertip veil was attached to an orange blossom head-piece; she wore white slippers; and carried a white prayer book on which rested white roses with a shower of baby breath.

Mrs. Ludwig, the matron of honor, was gowned in old rose moiré tulle, a floor-length model. It had a sweetheart neckline and three-quarter sleeves. She wore an old rose net bonnet and carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses.

For a week's journey to Wildwood, N. J., Mrs. Dougherty wore a two-piece dress consisting of a black skirt and white eyelet bodice; white hat and accessories; and a corsage of white roses. The newlyweds will reside for a time with the bride's parents. Mrs. Dougherty is a graduate of Langhorne-Middletown high school, class of '42, and is employed as a PBX operator at Fleetwings, Inc., Division of Kaiser Cargo, Bristol. Mr. Dougherty, a graduate of Centralia high school, served with the U. S. Marine Corps, he spending 29 months overseas.

36 Ships Affected By Blast of Atomic Bomb

had no difficulty controlling the ship as it roared away from the atomic fury reaching up at them from the lagoon.

When the men who "delivered the goods" over Bikini had time to look behind them they got their first glimpse of the cloud itself, whirling its awesome way upward in a boiling inferno of atomic dust.

Gen. Ramey, who flew on the history-making mission, immediately insisted on shaking hands with every crew member aboard "Dave's Dream." Col. William Blanchard of Chelsea, Mass., air attack unit commander, riding in the tail of the plane, relayed excited reports to the rest of the airmen as "Dave's Dream" headed back to Kwajalein.

Less than an hour after the atomic bomb had been dropped, "Dave's Dream" was hovering over its home base. Three thousand members of the task force clustered around the airstrip waiting to greet the bomber.

Swanicut received permission from Gen. Ramey to "buzz" Kwajalein, sweeping over the airstrip at a low-level and pulled up in a perfectly executed chandelle.

While Swanicut was completing his atomic bomb mission, all four of the Army radio-controlled B-17 "drones" came through their penetration of the atom cloud and landed safely at Eniwetok.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., July 1.—(INS)—Joseph H. Wood, father of the bombardier who plummeted the A-Bomb into Bikini Lagoon, is glad the whole thing's over.

The 59-year-old father of Major Harold H. Wood, the bombardier, has been bed-ridden—and anxious—for the past month.

"I've been awfully anxious," he said after he heard his son's voice signify "bombs away" over the radio, "and now I'm glad it's over."

Dr. Marcus W. Newcomb, the elder Wood's physician, said the bombardier's father lost so much weight through worrying, that his scheduled entry into a sanatorium had to be delayed.

their stand on the fact that the President had ignored their advice to sign the OPA extension bill.

The Congressional "big four"—House Speaker Rayburn (D) Tex., House Majority Leader McCormack of Mass., Senate President McKellar (D) Tenn., and Senate Majority Leader Barkley—had advised the President that "had as the bill is, it's better than none at all."

Meanwhile, Republican leaders lashed out at the President for vetoing the OPA bill.

Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, who came under sharp attack in the President's radio address to the nation Saturday night, expressed doubt that any extension bill will be enacted and placed the blame on Mr. Truman.

The Senator, an influential member of the Senate Banking Committee, accused the President of playing politics. He stated:

"His whole broadcast had the aspect of a partisan political attack."

The Taft amendment would have given manufacturers their 1941 prices plus increased costs and was severely criticized by the President.

GOP National Chairman Carroll Reece, criticizing the veto, declared that the President had apparently lost control of both Congress and himself. He said the President must assume the responsibility for throwing America "into the fires of inflation."

By William L. Umland

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Price Administrator Paul Porter warned the nation's businessmen today that any rent or price increases resulting from the expiration of controls would be disallowed if Congress re-issues price control machinery.

The officials expressed belief that there would be little change in rents if controls were revived within the next month, pointing out that landlords generally were not expected to put boosts into effect until Aug. 1.

An OPA spokesman said that the agency would continue to prosecute enforcement cases underway before June 30 and to enforce the slaughtering control program designed to curb the meat black market. Sugar rationing also will be continued under the Second War Powers Act.

In his latest appeal for co-operation from the nation's businessmen, Porter expressed confidence that most of them would observe price and rent ceilings while Congress "reconsiders OPA legislation."

Patton-Griffiths Nuptials Are An Event of Saturday

A matron of honor, two bridesmaids and flower girl preceded Miss Lucy Jean Griffiths to the altar of St. James' Episcopal Church on Saturday at the hour of four, when she took the vows which made her the wife of Mr. Paul Edgar Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Patton, of 557 Linden street.

The bride, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Griffiths, 555 Linden street, was given in marriage by her father, and the Rev. George E. Boswell, rector, officiated. Mr. Henry Adams, organist, accompanied Mrs. Ralph Hart, Bath Addition, the vocalist.

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white nylon, en-train. She wore a net veil with sweetheart type headpiece of net, and carried white roses.

Mrs. Jonathan Griffiths, sister-in-law of the bride, who served as matron of honor, wore aqua nylon; Miss Pearl Shemeley, Cedar street, wore yellow marquisette, and Miss Barbara Miller, Linden street, wore peach marquisette. The latter two were bridesmaids. The gowns of the three were floor-length, and their floral headpieces matched their gowns. They carried peach toned gladioli. The little flower girl, Linda Hart, Bath Addition, wore a gown of white rayon marquisette, floral headpiece, and carried red roses.

Mr. Alfred Griffiths, Linden street, brother of the bride, was best man, with Mr. Clarence Breece, Bath street, and Mr. William McDonnell, Bath Addition, serving as ushers.

The bride and groom received relatives and friends in the parish house following the wedding. They have gone to the Pocono Mountains in a dress of aqua rayon jersey, white accessories, and a corsage of white roses. The couple will make their home with the bride's parents.

Gifts of the bride to her attendants were crosses and chains; to the flower girl, a bracelet. The groom presented the best man and ushers with the clasps.

Our Father, today we begin a new month, one during which we remember especially the founders of our nation. This, O Lord, is the birth month of the United States of America, and we give Thee thanks for the privilege of being part of this great nation. So also we thank Thee for those leaders of old who made the home of the free and the land of the brave, not an ideal only but a living reality. Give us grace, we beseech Thee, to develop our heritage, and to propagate the principles of democracy. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

That sacred relic is still ours to cherish, an emblem of liberty and justice, for from its tower rang a call that was a note of joy and a challenge to all the world.

May its clarion call never be stilled, and may the challenge which we defended so nobly abroad, be doubly guarded at home by all Americans.

MECKIER TURNS OVER WHILE IN THE LEAD AT EDDINGTON

Driver Thrown Out of Boat As It Bursts In Bulwark

SUFFERS FOOT INJURY

Four Hard Luck Drivers Suffer Mishaps Racing Over Course

EDDINGTON, July 1—Walter "Doc" Edwards, Kensington, won the final 12-lap feature for the 60-mile-an-hour Class 2 outboard racing boats at the Neshaminy Aquadrome yesterday. Eddie Van Houten, Rutherford, N. J., turned in the fastest time of 5:14 to push his Class 1 mount to victory in the final for the smaller 50-mile-an-hour boats over 12 laps of the new Neshaminy Aquadrome water course at Eddington.

However, honors for the day should pass to four hard luck drivers who provided breath-taking thrills for the spectators and yet had to be content to take home only appearance money. The first of these, Eddie Meckier, Jersey City driver of the Lipton Trophy boat—winner Valerie, which boat last week set a two-lap Aquadrome time trial record of 43.8 seconds and later turned over while leading in the first class 2 event, was dogged by misfortune. Meckier, travelling down the straight-away in front of the grand-stand at an estimated 60-mile-an-hour clip, failed to cut his speed when his boat moved up to the west turn, due to a jammed throttle. Meckier, fortunately, was thrown from his roaring mahogany hull just before his boat hit the bank and buried itself back to the steering wheel in the clay and gravel bulwark. Meckier escaped from the accident with only slight injury to his right foot.

Harry Hull, stunt aquaplane rider, plunged into the water to rescue Meckier, who though equipped with life jacket and crash helmet, was in a dazed and semi-conscious state.

When interviewed later, Meckier stated: "This is without doubt the toughest and most dangerous outboard waterway in the country, but I think I've licked my jinx and I'll be competing again next week with 'Valerie' or a new boat."

Doubly sensational was the fact that scarcely had Meckier's uncontrolled craft buried itself in the bank when Dean Worcester, of Silver Spring, Md., turned over on the east turn. Worcester was uninjured and was able to get his outfit running again in time for the final, but had to be content with fourth place.

Hard-riding Dutch Soliday, who stood third in high point standing, turned over in "Poin 11" after hitting Worcester's overturned racer. The fourth casualty in a thrill-packed racing card, which included more than 30 entries, occurred when Joe Stager of New York City turned over in the second Class 2 heat. Stager, driving "Bernadette," was riding in second place when the accident occurred.

Johnny Zack, of Perth Amboy, N. J., winner of last week's feature event, went out of the day's running when he hit the west bank.

Added to the scheduled six events of racing were two extra races featuring the tiny 40-mile-an-hour mid-gets. In the second heat of the mid-gets two girl drivers, Dottie Mayer, of Flushing, N. Y., and Jane Hendrickson, Red Bank, N. J., finished first and second to beat out a field of six men drivers.

Next Sunday's races at the Aquadrome promise to be thrill-packed with the addition of five new entrants in Class 2 in addition to those boats which appeared yesterday. Outboard racing on a quarter-mile course, a heretofore untried venture, is meeting with excellent spectator reaction and is considered by those who saw last Sunday's schedule of races to be the outstanding motor speed spectacle.

Announce Schedules For Various Games

The Hibernians-St. Ann's postponed game will be played Friday evening on the Maple Beach field. On that same evening, Langhorne Legion will play Bristol Processing on the township diamond.

The Legion-Schutte-Koerting game of last Friday evening has been rescheduled to be played on the Echo Beach field next Sunday.

Because the Fleetwings plant is closed down this week, all Fleetwings games have been cancelled and will be played at a later date.

HARRIMAN DEFEATS WEST BRISTOL

The Harriman team continued its winning way in the Bristol Youth League by whipping West Bristol, 5-3, yesterday afternoon on the latter's diamond. Frank Murphy allowed the West Bristol boys three hits, while Bob Ghannt gave up four hits to Harriman, but Ghannt's wildness contributed to his defeat. Murphy had a no-hit, no-run game until the seventh.

The H. & M. Trucking team, playing under its new manager, 'Cookie' Piazza, chalked up another win, beating the Fifth Ward Ramblers, 8-5. The Trucking team scored four runs in the ninth, one being a homer by Norris, but this inning was not completed and the score reverted back to the eighth.

Rubino and Gross, the Fifth Ward hurlers, were very liberal with their passes, while Norris allowed the losers five scattered hits.
